About Our Contributor

Huaiyu Chen is an assistant professor in the School of History, Philosophy, and Religious Studies, Arizona State University. The focus of his early research was foreign religions on the Silk Road, with a special attention devoted in the interaction between Nestorianism and Buddhism in medieval China through reading those manuscripts from Dunhuang and Central Asia. His Ph.D. work shifted to the study of medieval monasticism. He regards himself as a medievalist, focusing on social, cultural, and religious history of medieval China.
The Friends of the Gest Library is a group of private individuals dedicated to the idea that an East Asian library resource like the Gest Oriental Library (the East Asian Research Library at Princeton University) must be known, supported, and encouraged in order to enrich both the aesthetic knowledge of East Asia and the growth of scholarship and contemporary information concerning that part of the world. Many individuals have already been active for years in guiding the Gest Library, and contributing their time and resources ad hoc. In 1986 they formed the Friends of the Gest Library in order to broaden the Library’s support and foster communication among other interested parties.

As a group, the Friends sponsor colloquia and exhibitions on East Asian books, calligraphy, art, and their historical relationships. They secure gifts and bequests for the Library in order to add to its holdings items and collections of great worth. They disseminate information about the Library (and about other East Asian libraries) so that members and nonmembers alike can benefit from its resources.

JOINING THE FRIENDS

Membership is open to those subscribing annually forty dollars or more. With that membership fee is included a yearly subscription to the East Asian Library Journal. Members will be invited to attend special exhibitions, lectures, and discussions that occur under the aegis of the Friends. Checks are payable to the Trustees of Princeton University and should be mailed to:
