CONTRIBUTORS TO THIS ISSUE

WILLIAM BAKER is Professor of English and Professor, University Libraries, at Northern Illinois University. With William Clarke, he edited The Letters of Wilkie Collins (1999). He is currently editing (with Paul Lewis, Andrew Gasson, and Graham Law) another four volumes of Collins's letters, to be published in 2005/6. His George Eliot: A Bibliographical History will be published in 2002.

MARGARET ANNE DOODY teaches at the University of Notre Dame, where she is John and Barbara Glynn Professor of Literature and director of the new Ph.D. Program in Literature. Her interests include detective stories, of which she is a perpetrator; in spring of 2002 the second novel of her "Aristotle" series will appear.

DAVID J. HOLMES has been a dealer in rare books and manuscripts since 1972. His firm is located in Hamilton, New York.

ELLEN JORDAN is a conjoint senior lecturer in the School of Social Sciences at the University of Newcastle, New South Wales, Australia. Her main area of research is women's work in nineteenth-century Britain. She has, however, been a lifelong fan of the novels of Charlotte Yonge and is collaborating on a project to transcribe and annotate all known letters by this author.

DEIDRE LE FAYE has published widely on Jane Austen and the Austen family. Among her publications are Jane Austen: A Family Record (1989), a completely new edition of Jane Austen's Letters (1995), and a biography of Austen for the British Library Writer's Lives series (1998). Forthcoming in 2002 are Jane Austen: The World of Her Novels and Jane Austen's Outlandish Cousin: The Life and Letters of Eliza de Feuillide.

CHARLIE LOVETT is the former president of the Lewis Carroll Society of North America and the director of publications for that organization. He is the series editor for The Complete Pamphlets of Lewis

Carroll (1994–) and the author of several books on Lewis Carroll, including Alice on Stage (1990), Lewis Carroll's England (1998), and Lewis Carroll and the Press (1999).

DEBRA N. MANCOFF is a Scholar in Residence at the Newberry Library in Chicago and an Adjunct Associate Professor in the Department of Art History, Theory, and Criticism of the School of the Art Institute of Chicago. She has written widely on Victorian art and culture, including Jane Morris: The Pre-Raphaelite Model of Beauty (2000) and Burne-Jones (1998). Her current project, Flora Symbolica: The Pre-Raphaelites and the Language of Flowers, will be published in 2003.

MARGARET SHERRY RICH is Reference Librarian and Archivist in the Department of Rare Books and Special Collections, Princeton University Library. Her previous contributions to the Chronicle include "Telling Her Story: British Women of Letters of the Victorian Era" (Autumn 1995) and "Firestone at Fifty: History with a Human Face" (Autumn 1998).

WALTER E. SMITH is a bibliographer and collector of English literature of the Victorian period. He is the author of bibliographical catalogs of Joseph Conrad (1978), Charles Dickens (1982), and the Brontë sisters (1991). His descriptive bibliography of Anthony Trollope's American editions will be published early in 2003.

DIANE WAGGONER is the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation Curatorial Fellow in the Art Collections at The Huntington Library, Art Collections, and Botanical Gardens, San Marino, California. She has a Ph.D in art history from Yale University and is currently writing a book on Lewis Carroll's photography.
