Biographical Note
Professor Cecilia Elena Rouse is the Lawrence and Shirley Katzman and Lewis and Anna Ernst Professor in the Economics of Education and a Professor of Economics and Public Affairs at Princeton University. Her primary research interests are in labor economics with a focus on the economics of education. Prof. Rouse has served as an editor of the Journal of Labor Economics and is currently a senior editor of The Future of Children. She is the founding director of the Princeton University Education Research Section, is a member of the National Academy of Education, and is a research associate of the National Bureau of Economic Research. In 1998-1999 she served a year in the White House at the National Economic Council and from 2009-2011 she served as a member of the President’s Council of Economic Advisers. She received her Ph.D. in economics at Harvard University in 1992. In July of 2012 Prof. Rouse was named the Dean of Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs.

Prof. Rouse's primary research interests are in labor economics with a focus on the economics of education. She is the author of prominent papers on topics including the economic benefit of community college attendance; the existence of sex discrimination in symphony orchestras; the consequences of Milwaukee's private school voucher program on student achievement; the effect of student loan debt on career choices of college graduates; and the impact of computer-assisted instruction on students' performance in reading and mathematics. While most of Prof. Rouse's scholarly work has focused on domestic policy issues, she spent the year following receipt of her undergraduate degree from Harvard studying at L'Université de Cheikh Anta Diop in Senegal. She has also researched poverty in Sri Lanka and unions in South Africa.
