

Index to Volume LXXIII

(2011–2012)

Page numbers in italics indicate illustrations. Roman numerals identify the issue

(I = Autumn; II = Winter; III = Spring).

- Adler, Elmer, III:390, 392; early career and collecting, III:393–94, 395; and museum of printing history, III:402, 403, 404, 406, 407, 408, 410, 412; organizes exhibitions in Pynson Printers gallery, III:393, 396, 397, 401–8, 412
- Audubon, John James: Birds of America, III:380, 381–82, 383, 384, 385–86, plate 2; and Robert Havell Jr., III:485, 487. See also Perse, Saint-John
- Bailey, Herbert S.: memorial for, by Peter Dougherty, I:101–3
- Bernhardt, Sarah: appeal to American female audiences, II:222, 225–26
- “Biography of a Few Paintings,” by François Wahl, III:443–62
- Birch, Reginald: illustrations for F. H. Burnett books, II:193, 204, 205
- Booton, Diane, “Dynastic Identity and Remembrance of Ducal Brittany in a Fifteenth-Century Carmelite Missal,” I:37–67
- Braque, Georges: aquatints for L’Ordre des oiseaux, III:372, 374, 378, 386–87, 388, plate 1; fascination with birds, III:373, 375
- Buddhism in Nara-era Japan: canon of texts, I:15–16; and the role of women, I:21–22; and sutra copying, I:10–13, 18, 23, 25, 30–36
- Burnett, Frances Hodgson, II:184, 202; early life and writings, II:187–89. See also Little Lord Fauntleroy
- Burnett, Vivian, II:201, 206n17; and creation of Little Lord Fauntleroy, II:202–4
- Bush, Alfred L.: memorial for E. Crane Jr., II:297–99
- Carroll, Lewis (Charles Lutwidge Dodgson): and illustrations for his Sylvie and Bruno volumes, III:495–500
- Church of England: and millenarian activity among clergy, II:249, 250, 263, 269, 277
- Cicellis, Kay, II:292; draft writings, II:286–88; early life and writings, II:279, 281–83; on language and translation, II:289–91; political activities, II:288–89; unpublished works, II:283–85;
- Cornelius, Peter: series of Faust illustrations, III:332, 368
- Crane, Edward Matthews, Jr.: memorial for, by Alfred L. Bush, II:297–99
- Davenport, Fanny, II:219, 223, 224, 225; as actress-manager, II:221–22; chooses to play strong female characters, II:222–26, 227; concern for respectability of the stage, II:226–27; early career, II:217–20. See also Soldier of France, A
- Delacroix, Eugène: and artistic rebellion, III:369–70; critical reception of Faust lithographs, III:330–31; Faust lithographs, III:346, 347, 349, 350, 352, 353; genesis of Faust lithographs, III:328, 331–42; portrait of Goethe,

- Delacroix, Eugène (cont.)
 III:355, 356, 358; transforms character of Faust, III:343–51. See also Goethe, Johann Wolfgang von
- Dougherty, Peter: memorial for H. S. Bailey, I:101–3
- “Drawn from Life,” by Julie Mellby, III:481–83
- “Dynastic Identity and Remembrance of Ducal Brittany in a Fifteenth-Century Carmelite Missal,” by Diane Booton, I:37–67
- “Elmer Adler and the Little Gallery of the Pynson Printers,” by Julie Mellby, III:391–412
- “‘An Excess of Savage Force’? Faust in French: Stapfer, Delacroix, and Goethe,” by Robert Vilain, III:313–71
- Fabricand-Person, Nicole: “Cover Note,” I:165–69; “The Tōkaidō Road: Journeys Through Japanese Books and Prints in the Collections of Princeton University Library,” I:68–99
- “Fanny Davenport, Frances Aymar Mathews, and the Play That Failed,” by Sara E. Lampert, II:214–46
- Faust*: translated into French, III:315–16, 322–27
- Foley, Thomas Philip: and biblical evangelicalism, II:269–71; collection of works by and about J. Southcott, II:249–50, 265–69; early life, II:250–51; helps to disseminate Southcott’s revelations, II:251–53, 254–56, 273–77; interest in contemporary prophets, II:267, 271–72
- Furniss, Harry: illustrations for L. Carroll, III:495–97, 498, 499, 499–500
- Gallo, Rubén, “Moctezuma’s Revenge, or, Sarduy in Princeton,” III:432–42
- Garrett Manuscript 40, I:44, 48, 50, 51, 54, 55, 58, 60, 62; illuminations representing spiritual and economic transactions, I:37–67
- “Georges Braque, Saint-John Perse, and the Mystery of Birds,” by Carol Rigolot, III:373–89
- German literature: reception in France, III:319–25
- Gest Manuscript 220, I:9, 16, 17, 19, 27, 30, 31; method of production, I:25–30
- Goethe, Johann Wolfgang von: portraits of, III:356, 357; reactions to E. Delacroix’s Faust lithographs, III:354, 358–65; reception in France, III:321–25; resists nationalistic appropriations of Faust, III:368–71
- Havell, Robert: A Collection of the Birds of Paradise, III:484, 485–87, plate 4
- Hitonari (scribe of Gest MS 220), I:28–29, 32–35
- Imholtz, Clare, “Cover Note,” III:495–500
- Joan of Arc: popularity in 19th-century America, II:232–34
- “The Kay Cicellis Archive at Princeton University,” by Peter Mackridge, II:279–96
- Kōmyōshi (Japanese queen consort): as patron of Buddhism, I:9, 14, 17–22
- Knoepfmacher, U. C., “Little Lord Fauntleroy: The Afterlife of a Bestseller,” II:185–213
- Lampert, Sara E., “Fanny Davenport, Frances Aymar Mathews, and the Play That Failed,” II:214–46
- Leslie, Elsie: portrays Little Lord Fauntleroy, II:197, 200
- lithography: and book illustration, III:313, 329–30

- Little Lord Fauntleroy*, II:185–87, 190, 193, 205; as a Cinderella story, II:194; character of “Dearest,” II:189, 191–93, 194–95, 209–11; F. H. Burnett’s story of its creation, II:201–6; film adaptations, II:206–12; girl actors portray Fauntleroy, II:197, 206–7; popularity of, II:199, 201; stage adaptation, II:195–97, 198, 199
- “Little Lord Fauntleroy: The Afterlife of a Bestseller,” by U. C. Knoepfelmacher, II:185–213
- Lowe, Bryan, “Texts and Textures of Early Japanese Buddhism: Female Patrons, Lay Scribes, and Buddhist Scripture in Eighth-Century Japan,” I:9–36
- Mackridge, Peter, “The Kay Cicellis Archive at Princeton University,” II:279–96
- Mathews, Frances Aymar: early career, II:227–28, 229–30; eulogizes F. Davenport, II:245–46; on women playwrights, II:232, 240, 243. See also Soldier of France, A
- Mellby, Julie: “Drawn from Life,” III:481–83; “Elmer Adler and the Little Gallery of the Pynson Printers,” III:391–412; “Rare Birds of Paradise,” III:485–87
- “Moctezuma’s Revenge, or, Sarduy in Princeton,” by Rubén Gallo, III:432–42
- Monfort family (Brittany), I:41–43; patronage memorialized in Garrett MS 40, I:39, 43–56, 64–67
- Moses, Henry: series of Faust illustrations, III:333, 335, 336
- Niblett, Matthew, “The Priest and the Prophetess: Thomas Philip Foley, Joanna Southcott, and Millenarian Activity in the Late Georgian Church of England,” II:247–78
- “Out in Front: Three Approaches to the Public Sculpture of George Segal,” by Robert Yoskowitz, III:463–79
- Perse, Saint-John (Alexis Leger): early life and career, III:375–77; fascination with birds, III:377–78; inspired by J. J. Audubon, III:379–81, 382, 386; poem for L’Ordre des oiseaux, III:378–79, 386, 387–89
- Pickford, Mary: portrays Little Lord Fauntleroy, II:206–9, 208
- “The Priest and the Prophetess: Thomas Philip Foley, Joanna Southcott, and Millenarian Activity in the Late Georgian Church of England,” by Matthew Niblett, II:247–78
- Pynson Printers, III:394–95, 406, 407, 412; offices and gallery in Times Annex, III:391–92, 395–97, 397. See also Adler, Elmer
- “Rare Birds of Paradise,” by Julie Mellby, III:485–87
- Retzsch, Moritz: series of Faust illustrations, III:332–33, 334
- Rigolot, Carol, “Georges Braque, Saint-John Perse, and the Mystery of Birds,” III:373–89
- Sarduy, Severo, III:433; literary works, III:432–34; paintings by, III:443–62, 448, 449, 457, 461, plate 3; in Princeton, III:434–42;
- Segal, George, III:473, 477; Abraham and Isaac, III:463, 465–67, 468, 469–70; The Constructors, III:464, 474–76, 477, 478; Depression Breadline, III:463–64, 471–74, 473
- Soldier of France, A*, II:239; critical reviews, II:236–38, 242–43; F. Davenport commission to F. A. Mathews, II:229, 231; Mathews’s conception of the play, II:234–37; suitability of Davenport for role, II:240–41, 243

- Southcott, Joanna, II: 248; appeal of her message, II: 272, 277; death, II: 260–62; early life, II: 253; efforts to disseminate her revelations, II: 253–56; sealing of believers and prophecies, II: 256–58, 259; spread of congregations, II: 260, 265. See also Foley, Thomas Philip
- Stapfer, Frédéric-Albert-Alexandre: early life, III: 317–18; translation of Faust, III: 325–27
- “Texts and Textures of Early Japanese Buddhism: Female Patrons, Lay Scribes, and Buddhist Scripture in Eighth-Century Japan,” by Bryan Lowe, I: 9–36
- Tōkaidō Road: famous sites illustrated, I: 75, 76, 79–99, 81, 83, 84, 86, 88–89, 91, 92, 93, 96, 97; in literature, I: 71–79; and the rise of tourism in Japan, I: 69–72
- “The Tōkaidō Road: Journeys Through Japanese Books and Prints in the Collections of Princeton University Library,” by Nicole Fabricand-Person, I: 68–99
- Victoria (queen of England): Great Seal of, II: 301–2, 303
- Vilain, Robert, “‘An Excess of Savage Force’? Faust in French: Stapfer, Delacroix, and Goethe,” III: 313–71
- Wahl, François: “Biography of a Few Paintings,” III: 443–62; on S. Sarduy in Princeton, III: 441
- women in 19th-century America: and professional advancement, II: 230; and the theater, II: 215–17, 218–21, 241–42, 246
- Woolf, Samuel Johnson, III: 480, 481–83
- Yoskowitz, Robert, “Out in Front: Three Approaches to the Public Sculpture of George Segal,” III: 463–79